CHEST DRIVE FAR SHORT OF GOAL

"Our Town" by J. B. WHITE

There is a great disposition among people to get the most out of life, and it is a lucky thing for them that they are never called on to definitize the comprehension of their desires, for they are seeking a complex answer to a vague need rather than finding themselves in the expression of a healthy want. It has often been said that life is an adventure, but many persons miss it inevitably because they look only for the highlights of living and thus their living becomes subjective.

There are no disproportions in life that positively prevent that larger expression of self, which is really living. Even those who are dying gamely and sacrificing wholeheartedly are more alive than the roundly inhibited. Age can be more youthful than youth that misses the shining moment that is life. Thus from Livingston, Montana, comes the story of two women over 60 years old who hitch-hiked their way from Washington and back. Their primary objective—which was to see the president—failed; but their principal objective expressed in terms of doing something succeeded splendidly. To their dying day, they will not get over the thrill of their strange adventure.

Many self-centered individuals who want to get something out of life, fail to realize that life is a gallant procession that should be joined rather than watched. For those who only watch, the procession is always past. To live really means to do something real. This is the simple essense of adventure.

Where is there a man with senses so dull he cannot derive supreme satisfaction from the sight of sidewalks and stores jammed with Christmas Shoppers? There is none.

Nothing so pleases the merchant for he measures his own prosperity by the size of the shopping crowd. But it is not only the business man who can take satisfaction in the congested stores and streets which mark this particular season of the year.

To the factory worker these crowds mean employment and good wages. To the citizen of any community these crowds mean prosperity for his home town or city. To society these crowds mean peace and the lightening of the burden placed upon society by the dependent.

One thing most Christmas-gift buyers overlook is that the gift benefits not alone the recipient. The Christmas shopper is placing capital at the command of industry and business, giving employment to labor and giving to the community its very life's blood—business. Recognition of this fact makes even easier pre-Christmas conversion of hoarded dollars into gifts.

Like a boomerang, the money society spends for its Christmas shopping comes back to it. From producer again—and all men are producers either with their capital or their labor.

From every front the Christmas news is cheerful. The swiftest flow of Christmas spending in years is swirling in on the nation's merchants. A survey shows that Christmas trade in many cities is at the high pitch of the 1929 and 1930 seasons and that in some localities it is 33 1-3 per cent above last year. Even sharper gains are expected in the next few days.

All of this, of course, comes under the general classification of glad tidings. In fact, it gives peculiar appropriateness to the news from New England that the demand for trees is unprecedented. In Vermont alone, more than 1,200,000 trees were shipped, while in Maine and New Hampshire huge piles of trees were shipped south.

These are signs that many millions of Americans, young and old, will have a happier Christmas than they have enjoyed in several years. There are countless others, however, for whom the more fortunate members of society must make adequate provision if the Christmas spirit is to prevail in the land.

CITY QUIET ON THANKSGIVING EVE

Football to Claim Many Celebrants

Cameron stores will be closed Thursday in observance of the time honored holiday that began when early settlers kneeled upon the New England coast and offered thanks.

Indications were many would journey to the annual football game between Texas A. & M. and Texas University to be played at Austin. Others planned a quiet day at home while another division of the people were away in the woods and for other attractions.

Of especial interest were Thanksgiving services held in churches.

Cameron had more than usual interest in football for on Thursday the Championship in District 25-B would be decided between Mart and Itasca. Cameron Yoemen play the winner in early December for the Bi-District title.

Editor Herald:

"On November 13 (Friday) I attended the Cameron-Belton football game and while we were in the grounds, someone used and wrecked my car.

"That is past. Now I would like for parties who used it to return the mirror and comb that was taken from the car. I do not believe they would break the set if they knew it was a greatly appreciated gift to us.

"Would appreciate the return of same and no questions asked. I believe your columns are widely read and this item may get to some of the parties. I also lost the keys to the Ford.

"Hoping you every success and prosperity, I am,

RAT WAR TO STAMP OUT TYPHUS DECEMBER 5TH

Rat fleas transmit typhus fever to people, and since Cameron is having frequent cases of typhus, we are putting on a campaign to kill as many rats as possible in the shortest length of time.

Now we want every citizen of Cameron—white, black, big, little, old and young to cooperate in this rat killing drive. Proprietors and employees of stores, wholesale houses, warehouses, hotels, office buildings, depots and garages; all owners and tenents of residences, barns, stables and outhouses must put out bait or traps each night during this campaign beginning Monday, November 30th and ending Saturday morning December 5th.

Bait, mixed and ready to put out will be waiting for you at the State Bank building free to all. Traps will be given to all who want them free of charge. Two kinds of bait will be furnished: barium canbonate, a deadly poison, for buildings closed to domestic animals. Red Squill for outhouses as it is not poison to domestic animals. If you prefer traps you may use them, however, the bait is more successful.

This campaign is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, the City Council and the City Health Officer.

LESS THAN HALF MADE

With less than half the budget subscribed the success of the Community Chest was hanging in the balance at noon Wednesday when the central committee made a check of the pledges.

The total pledged to date is $2500. All workers and those who expect to make subscriptions are urged to make their pledges this week. Due to the advanced season little time remains to make this community responsibility effective.

Hundreds of people in Cameron have not made contributions and who are able to do so. They would feel much better if they would do their share of this work and make the chest drive a success.

Those who have not pledged should not wait for someone to contact them, but go directly to some member of the committee and make their pledge.

Next week a complete list of those who have pledged will be published.

It would be a most unfortunate reflection upon the community if it should be said that citizens of Cameron failed to provide these funds that mean so much to those in need and the future welfare of the city.

Milam county has no spot richer in historical lore than Bryant Station, which was the scene of the first trading post established in the county.

Bryant Station was established by Benjamin F. Bryant, Texas pioneer, at the behest of no less an authority than General Sam Houston, as President of the Republic of Texas, and who named Bryant as an Indian Agent. He settled there in 1837 or 1838, built a log cabin for his family, and around this the village of Bryant Station grew, becoming the most important trading post in this section of the State.

It was at Bryant Station that the present firm of Scarbrough & Hicks in Rockdale had its foundation, when General H. P. Hale located there and went into the general mercantile business. His first clerk was E. M. Scarbrough, who later became the head of the firm of Scarbrough & Hicks in Rockdale, and still later E. M. Scarbrough & Sons, Austin.

Bryant Station's first post office was established in 1848. The office was discontinued in 1876.

The dedication of this marker on Sunday, November 29, is due to draw a great crowd, among whom will be many descendants of those early pioneers. The general public is cordially invited to attend.

Protect Children When Celebrating Christmas

Christmas time being a season of joy, every precaution should be taken to prevent any untoward circumstances which might enter into its celebration.

Too often the careless placing of lighter candles has resulted in painful burns, and even death to those participating in the Yuletide festivities. "Santa Claus" has been the victim in innumerable cases.

Tiny electric lights now are most used in lighting the Christmas tree, and that reduces the fire danger materially. If candles are to be used in the decoration—and they undoubtedly lend an effect not to be obtained by the electric lights—they should be placed on the mantel and in other secure locations where contact with their pretty blazes is not likely to be made.

In Christmas sports involving the slightest danger children should be directed in their play by an older person who is competent to effect a rescue if necessary.—Charles Frederick Wadsworth.

GEORGE RETTIG

When death calls a man who has lived a clean, Christian life from childhood, carrying with him to the very end the firm conviction that all was well, and that a place was prepared for him, and when the summons came he was sure that he would dwell in the house of the Lord forever, it tightens the faith and courage in the daily life of those with whom he had come in contact, and creates within them the longing to attain the same sure hope, faith, charity and love that followed that man to the grave.

Such was the life and character of Mr. George Rettig, better known as "Brother George," who departed this life Tuesday evening November 17th, 1936, at his home just north of Rockdale, at the age of 85 years. He walked through life humbly in the sight of God, and the place of his residence will be remembered always, and future residents of his residence will always recall that "Brother George" Rettig used to live here," a fine Christian gentleman he was; a good neighbor, always ready to encourage both the man of the world, and the ploughman in the field to carry on, leaving his friends with the feeling that the Christian life was the true and happiest life to live, and when he had called on his friends he always left them with the feeling that something nice had been done for them, and in death, those friends who gathered to pay their last respects felt the sweet solemnity that follow a true Christian, realizing that a noble spirit had departed this earthly life at a ripe age, for the better life on high.

Mr. Rettig was born at Randolph, Ohio, coming with his family to Rockdale, Texas, in 1879. Mrs. Rettig preceded him in death by fifteen years. Five children survive, being J. L. Rettig, Misses Elma and Laura Rettig of near Rockdale, and A. W. Rettig of Cameron, and two grandchildren, Preston Rettig and Albert Rettig, Jr.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. O. C. Acrey, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Cameron. Interment was made in Murray cemetery just Northwest of Rockdale. The following were pall bearers: Silas Christian, George Banzhaf, Frank Addleman, Richard Esquivel, Oscar Gross and Wilden Caldwell.

"THANKS A MILLION"
FOR MORE THAN A MILLION

America has bought 1,130,000 Chevrolets during the past twelve months, thereby giving Chevrolet the greatest year in its history and the greatest measure of buyer preference it has ever enjoyed.

The builders of Chevrolet are thankful for many things, but most of all for the warm friendship of the American people.

And so again at this Thanksgiving season we say, "Thank you, America," for you have given Chevrolet a measure of good-will without parallel in the annals of modern industry.

Consider, for a moment, all that you have done to inspire Chevrolet's appreciation during the past twelve months:

You have purchased 1,130,000 Chevrolets; you have made Chevrolet your favorite car for the seventh time in the past ten years; you have given Chevrolet strong preference in every section of the country; you have conferred this same high honor upon Chevrolet trucks by purchasing more than 205,000 commercial units; you have made 1936 the most successful year in all Chevrolet history.

And now, to climax these expressions of friendship, you are displaying even more marked preference for the new Chevrolet for 1937.

It is difficult to express adequate appreciation for gifts so great and so generous as these.

All we can say is, "Thanks a million" for more than a million cars in 1936; and all we can do is offer you the still finer Chevrolet of 1937 in return for the finest friendship ever bestowed upon any motor car manufacturer.

Editorial

"No holiday in all our calendar is comparable to Thanksgiving." There is no day like it celebrated by any people except the Americans. It celebrates the end of no great war, the birth of no great man, no business holiday, nor any church ritual. It is a day for the common people who have worked all year and then pause the one day to humbly thank God for the harvest.

Occasionally some one says he or she has nothing for which to be grateful. What a pity this person cannot see the glories of Nature! There are so many pictures painted by God to inspire us. "For food, clothing, and happiness, O, God, we trank thee!"

On every Thanksgiving day let us "Give thanks nuto the Lord, for he is good. His mercy endureth for ever."

First Christmas Trees Originated In Germany

On the wild, sandy heathland of the North German plain the dark-leafed fir trees have flourished for many centuries. It is not strange, therefore, that the Christmas tree should have its origin there. It dates back prior to the days of Christianity. The early Egyptians used to employ decorated trees in their festive season celebrations. It is a fact well known by all botanists that the palm tree puts forth a shoot each month, and at th etime of the winter solstice, a spray of palm bearing twelve shoots, was employed in the temple of Osiris, to mark the completion of the year. Curiously enough, England did not adopt christmas trees until the middle of the last century. The prince consort, shortly after his marriage to Queen Victoria, introduced them into Great Britain.

Family Dancing Team Saves Home

The 160-acre farm of Henry Spies, located a mile and a half from Massena, Iowa, like many other midwestern farms, was plagued with the drouth as well as a mortgage, and things looked pretty gloomy until an idea dawned on the family. DALLAS TEACHER'S BOOK TO BE USED LOCALLY

A new book for the first grade pupils, "Learn to Read," by Miss Dodie Hooe, and Miss Lora Lee Andrews, Mount Auburn School, is on the list of books Dallas students may use in addition to books furnished by the State.

Miss Andrews spent her entire vacation working on the book, which she calls a labor of love, since Dallas teachers are not permitted to receive royalties or other pay for their books used in the Dallas schools. If their books are used elsewhere renumeration is permitted.

Recognition of the book was given Miss Andrews at a meeting of the Mt. Auburn Parent-Teacher Association. She has been a member of the faculty at Mount Auburn for the last ten years.—Dallas News.

At The THEATER In Cameron

By C. W. GJEDDE

Easily the most delightful potpourri of beauty, wit, music and rhythm offered during the current season, "The Big Broadcast of 1937," which comes to the Cameron Theatre Sunday and Monday November 29 and 30, brings to the screen a generous helping of the air-wave's most outstanding performers, aided by a host of the screen's best entertainers.

Scintillating, gay, tuneful and often hilariously funny, "The Big Broadcast of 1937" includes Jack Benny, George Burns and Gracie Allen, Bob Burns, Martha Raye, Benny Goodman and his orchestra, Shirley Ross, Ray Milland, Frank Forrest, Benny Fields, Leopold Stokowski and his Symphony Orchestra and many other outstanding singers, dancers, musicians, comedians and specialty performers.

The story deals with the romance that blossoms between Miss Ross and Milland when the latter is asigned to trick her off the air by Forrest, an orchestra leader, and Benny, the studio manager. She discovers the deception and breaks with Milland. Gracie Allen, sponsor of a program, teams her with Forest and they become popular. An air wedding is planned for the two but when the moment arrives Miss Ross flees. She is found after a hectic chase and rushed to the studio to go through the wedding as scheduled. She does and finds herself married to Milland. All of this is done to excellent dancing and splendid music, both "swing" and "sweet."

Led By the Christmas Spirit, They Rejoiced

Sitting before the blazing fire and listening to the merry carolers without, Martha Barrons felt all the joy of the Christmas season. What a wonderful time it was! She smiled happily at her husband and son. Then her thoughts went back to that memorable Christmas years ago when something had led her steps to the Beacon Baby home. Again she looked into the eyes of a blue-eyed baby and felt that sudden desire to have him for her own. George had readily agreed to the adoption. Bless his heart, he would have agreed to anything to make her happy. But the baby had brought him happiness, too. He was now one of the ablest lawyers in town and had recently attracted nationwide attention in winning a complicated case. And the love and comradeship he had given them through the years was as deep and fine as if he had been their very own.

Truly, Martha Barrons thought, as the voices of the carolers faded into the night, it was the spirit of Christmas that had directed her steps on that long ago Christmas.—Katherine Edleman.

Man isn't so efficient. He can't steer a car and powder his nose and wave at a friend at once.

Divorce still seems awful to a lot of people who don't have to live with him or her as the case may be.

About Old Santa Claus, Children's Patron Saint

The dictionary merely tells you that Santa Claus is a contraction of Saint Nicholas (see Nicholas, Saint). A turning of the pages reveals that Nicholas was a bishop of Myra or Smyrna in Asia Minor about 300 A. D. He was the patron saint of old Russia and was believed to offer special protection and comfort to seafaring men, thieves, virgins and children." His affection for children was based on the assertion that he brought back to life three schoolboys who had been murdered. An encyclopedia attributes the name by which he is known in America to the early Dutch settlers who called him San Nicolaag.

But it little matters whether he be known as Saint Nicholas, Santa Claus, Kris Kringle, or a dozen other names, for the presence of his spirit on the climax holiday of the year is the important thing. It enters every home in the four corners of Christendom and touches the hearts of all the men and women in them. Moreover, it is essentially the spirit of childhood, the freshness, the courage, and the eagerness of young lives. Saint Nicholas may seem old, but he has none of the fears, regrets or prejudices of age. He and his children stand on the threshold of the world. Their banner is good will and their goal is peace.

So this day dedicated to the memory of the birth of a child, belongs to all children. It is their carols, their laughter, their happiness which makes it sweet. And we older folk should on this day at least share their kindliness, their tolerance, their purity and their Saint Nicholas.—The Boston Herald.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

First Baptist Church, Cameron, Texas, in Conference Assembled, November 15, 1936.

In obedience to providential summons, our brother, fellow Christian and friend, William Henderson, has closed his temporal career of usefulness and joined the saintly host in the haven of eternal rest. For nearly half a century he has been an active, consecrated and consistant member of this church, and, during most of that period, with eminent efficiency and Christian fidelity and loyalty, has served as Deacon and filled other responsible offices. In civic enterprises he was a type of the upright citizen. In religious life, verily, he was a soldier of the cross. For him the bugle call never sounded in vain. invariably he was in the front line. He fought a good fight; he kept the faith.

Therefore, be it resolved that in the passing of Brother Henderson:

1. This church and the Gospel of Christianity has suffered the loss of the valiant and faithful service and the shining example of an active, consecrated Christian life, and the community, and society at large, a valued and ever dependable exponent in the cause of civic righteonsness.

2. Though the spirit has taken its flight and the mortal form is laid to rest in the rigid tomb, yet in our hearts and memories Brother Henderson will live on, and his wholesome example of a life of Christian recitude still will serve to strengthen Christian faith and Christian living, and to beckon others to the Christian fold.

3. These resolutions shall be spread upon the minutes of the church, a copy furnished the family of the deceased and a copy tendered each of the local papers for publication.

Ancients Gave Presents as Most People Do Now

The custom of making presents at Christmas is derived from very ancient usage. It was a Tuetonic invention. In Latin countries gifts were exchanged at New Years, writes James Waldo Fawcett in the Washington (D. C.) Evening Star.

Nativity plays and pageants trace back to a pre-Christian era. The sports of the Lords of Misrule in England are supposed to be an inheritance from the Saturnalia of heathen Rome.

Father Christmas or Santa Claus is identified with St. Nicholas or Nicholas, and also with Knecht Ruprecht and Robin Goodfellow. Grimm says that in some parts of Germany Knecht Nicholas is merely an attendant on the real gift giver, who is sometimes the infant Christ, and sometimes Dame Bertha, but who is also frequently conceived as an ugly dwarf, called Krampus.

The setting up in Latin churches of of Christmas creche is said to have been originated by St. Francis.

There are a lot of old friends that you should remember this Christmas with a really personal gift—SEND YOUR PHOTOGRAPH.

GHOSTLY CHRISTMAS BELLS TO GREET MERRY YULETIDE

Amongst the bells which will ring out to greet the coming Yuletide will be many ghostly peals, heard on no other night of the year; for tradition says that the bells of all buried churches join in the chorus every Christmas eve.

There are the bells of Raleigh, once a prosperous village in Nottinghamshire, now only a country valley. All sign of habitation was swallowed up many years ago by an earthquake. It is said that every Christmas eve the bells of the old church are heard to ring again. A legend of this kind is told of a country church near Preston, the very name of which nobody knows.

In Holland the story of the city of Been is told every Christmas. This wonderful place was famous for its magnificence and beauty, and also for its wickedness and shamelessness. One day the whole city was swallowed up by the sea.

The submerged bells of Dunwich, now covered by the sea, are said to join the ghostly chorus.

Banking News

—tells a story of strength and growth in public service.

IN our previous advertisement we pointed out that 63,000,000 depositors have entrusted some 45 billion dollars in their banks. The latest official nationwide figures show how the banks are employing these deposits through sound conservative loans and investments:—

Bank loans on farm lands and city real estate, nine billion dollars; loans to individuals and business concerns, twelve billion dollars; investments in direct Federal government loans, eleven billion dollars; in obligations of various government recovery corporations, one billion dollars; investments in state and municipal bonds, over three billion dollars; in American corporate securities, six billion dollars.

This bank feels that American banking as a whole is fully measuring up to its duties in the public services it is rendering.

Phillip Reid, cashier of the bank, in adding this service to the already varied accommodations of the bank, expressed satisfaction over providing this safe deposit service for business men in Cameron and was happy to note that a number have subscribed for the service.

Night deposit service is in wide, general use in cities and such a service has been in demand here for some time. It remained for the Citizens National Bank to provide this service which is in line with its policy of providing the best and most modern banking conveniences for its patrons.

The night vault into which funds and valuables can now be placed with safety, guaranteed by insurance against losses, is a built-in safe with a flap door opening through the south wall. When deposits are made they fall into the vault on the inside of the building much the same as mail deposited at a postal window. When the banks open the vault is unlocked and each deposit credited to the patron.

Bags and keys, numbered, are furnished each patron of the service. Deposits found in the vault when the bank opens are identified by numbers registered in the name of the firm or his appointee.

Mr. Reid believes the service will stamp out burglaries and that business men generally will take advantage of the protection offered. The cost is negligible. To date the following have become patrons of the night deposit vault:

The Christmas Carolers Welcome Everywhere

"Here comes the Carolers!"

So it used to be. Young faces pressed against the window pane, straining to hear the cheerful carols outside. Perhaps it was the story of the Christ child put to tune or a ballad of love and cheer. When the singers were done the householder invited then in for a bite and a sup, or gave them a coin or two for their song.

Then on to the next house, to sing again under the stars or veiled behind sifted snow.

And then, in the early morning, home again to their own firesides.

It was a good old custom, this midnight minstrelsy in the season of peace and good will. "With the beginning of Yuletide, twelve days before Christmas day," as Percival Chubb tells us in the Standard, published in New York by the American Ethical Union, "small bands of musicians went the rounds and in the mire or on the road or on the steps, played the old folk tunes as a lyrical prelude to the great day." To some of the antique ballad airs, like "Good King Wenceslaus," says Mr. Chubb, the singers would add a hymn tune or two—"Once in David's Royal City" or "Hark the Herald Angels Sing." "Punctuating the bustle of domestic preparation for the coming feast, these ministrations in the still night give breath of poetry that touched the spirit of Christmas with an endearing beauty. Day by day the tide of Joyous anticipation rose until the crescendo broke into a forte of exuberance."

Those simple day of the folk are gone, says Mr. Chubb; the glory is departed.

But the custom of making the rounds on Christmas eve to sing carols of peace and good will on earth still prevails here and there.—Literary Digest.

CELEBRATED CHRISTMAS ON WAY TO NORTH POLE

Captain Scott and his men on their way to the Pole once celebrated Christmas day by having a wash in a cupful of water each, and by washing their shirts. On another occasion after being on short rations they kept Christmas day by consuming such luxuries as raisins and chocolates for breakfast, and for supper they indulged in four courses. First of all there was a full whack of pemmican, with slices of horse meat flavored with onion and curry powder and thickened with biscuit, then arrowroot cocoa and biscuit hoosh sweetened, then plum pudding, then cocoa with raisins, and finally, a dessert of caramels and ginger. "After all this," says Scott, "it was difficult to move. Wilson and I couldn't finish our share of the plum pudding. We felt thoroughly warm and slept splendidly." But the advance was slow the following day owing, probably, to the tightening of the night before.

MAKE CHRISTMAS BURDEN, BE UNHAPPY REST OF YEAR

It is so customary nowadays to hear disparagement of Christmas as a season of vanity, selfish display, greed and covetousness that we like to point out the other side. Some of our cynics declare that Christmas gifts are themselves dictated by self interest—that they are meanly offered in the hope of a return—with interest—or are an exhibition of vanity. And yet, who would dare to say this of a mother, who deprives herself to gie happiness to her children, or of the girl who willingly foregoes some little vanity for the pleasure of her parents? People who make Christmas a burden and a tax show the same attitude throughout the year—their own false standards of living are to blame, and not this holy festival.—Rural New-Yorker.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Jackson of Salty Celebrate 70th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Jackson of Salty, Milam County, were honored on Sunday at the Salty church by their friends on their seventieth wedding anniversary, which was November 20th. Mr. Jackson is 91 years of age and Mrs. Jackson will be 87 years old on December 25th.

The friends gathered at the church for a program, which was followed by lunch spread on tables under the trees of the Salty church grounds. As Mr. and Mrs. Jackson sat in the pulpit of the church surrounded by many beautiful flowers brought by friends, the following program was rendered: song, "Rock of Ages," led by Clarence Jackson of Salty; prayer by Judge John Watson, Cameron; piano solo, "Old Rugged Cross" by Doris Jones of Orange, a great granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Jackson; poem composed by A. J. Jackson and read by Judge John Watson; a poem on the romance of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Jackson read by a daughter, Mrs. Mattie Pinkerton of Salty; piano solo by Juanita Brown of Palestine, a great grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson.

The romance of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson was almost a story book romance. More than seventy years ago, Mrs. Jackson who was then Miss Sarah Jane Thomas, was at a quilting party in Montgomery, Alabama. Pretty Sarah Thomas was told to look into the well and the man's face that appeared on the water would be the man she would wed. She looked into the well and the face of Andrew J. Jackson appeared. Not so very long afterwards she married the tall, handsome man, whose face appeared to her in the "wishing well." Today, seventy years later, they are still happily married, are the proud parents of 12 children, 80 grand-children and 90 great grand-children.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson were married by a magistrate, F. M. Rushtin in Alabama, November 20, 1866.

Mr. Jackson was born in Montgomery County, Alabama, on February 5, 1845. He enlisted in the Confederate Army at Montgomery, Alabama, July, 1862. He joined what was called Hillard's Legion, Jack Thornton's Battalion,Captain McCann's Company B., under General Lee. Later his company was thrown into reigments and Jackson was in the 60th Alabama reigment Company C under Col. J. W. Sangord, Major Hitchcock, Gracious Brigade and Bushrod Johnson's division. Jackson was in the last battle of Appomattox Court House. Mr. Jackson is the only living member of the Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson came to Texas in November, 1874 and settled on Hill Prairie, Bastrop County, where they resided for two years farming. They then moved to Milam county in the fall of 1876 and lived until 1909 when they moved to Orange and lived until 1914 and then moved back to Milam county, where they have since resided.

Mr. Jackson was the founder of the Salty Singing Convention of Milam County, which was organized in 1895. He was president of the organization until he resigned in 1928, and his son, Clarence, was elected president and has been president to this day.

Mr. Jackson was superintendent of the Salty Sunday School for 20 years. He has been a member of the Methodist Church seventy nine years and Mrs. Jackson seventy two years. Mr. Jackson has been a blacksmith, carpenter, farmer, singing school teacher and composed music. Mrs. Jackson was a teacher in Sunday School for twenty years or more. Many years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson erected a family altar and even today hold family prayer morning and night.

May Enjoy Chirstmas in Mansions In The Skies

It is now the fashion to "keep both feet on the ground." In fact it's hard to keep even one foot on the ground; the other one seems always to be up, getting into a car or an airplane; and pretty soon, there you are—both feet entirely, completely, distinctly off the ground.

What this condition may mean to future generations is hard to guess. Perhaps in a year or two people will make a date to celebrate Christmas three thousand feet up in the air. "Come on up!" friends may be urging. "We are going to shoot a party up over Mt. Washington. Dancing, charades and a fancy dress ball!"

And we shall be obliged to taxi in a small plane to the party and be whisked aboard, and worry whether we can get a taxi-plane home again.

And every cockpit will be trimmed in colored bulbs and the trade for Christmas trees will be literally going up! Plane trucks to deliver a fine spruce at the service entrance of a Flying Mansion in the skies.

So don't stick to that old one about both feet on the ground. If you do, you'll find yourself frightfully low-down and left behind!—Martha Banning Thomas.

HOLDS PRISONER

London, Ohio.—While raking leaves in a cemeery, Max Weimer, 14, saw an escaped convict from the State Prison farm. For two hours he played a game of hare and hounds with the convict until he finally cornered him in a cornfield and stood guard over him with a pitchfork until guards from the prison arrived. A check for an undisclosed amount and a dinner in the officers' mess hall were Weimer's rewards.

DEATH OF WOMAN SHOWS SHE LIVED AS MAN 40 YEARS

Masqueraded So She Could Help Men Whom She Found in Trouble.

San Francisco.—A kindly little individual known in San Francisco for forty years as Jack B. Garland, sixty-seven, social worker, former newspaper man and writer, was revealed in death as a woman.

"Jack" Garland collapsed in a street one night and died in a hospital next morning of peritonitis. Dr. Rolla B. Hess, who performed an autopsy, said "Jack" was a woman.

Her real name was Elvira Virginia Mugarrieta.

A friend, Mrs. Mary Haines, reported "Jack" Garland turned to masquerading as a man years ago to facilitate her desire to help the needy. Associates said her real name was Beatrice Garland. Mrs. Haines said:

"Many years ago she witnessed a heartless scene in the office of a private charity organization that moved her to go into the streets at night to help the distressed.

"She found that she was handicapped by her sex. She put on men's clothes to make her work more effective."

Worked in Philippines.

Among "Jack" Garland's effects were papers indicating she had worked with the Red Cross during the Philippine insurrection and had authority to pass through military lines.

Mrs. George Shadburn, sixty-nine-year-old social service worker and writer, told how "Jack," who was her sister, had worn men's clothing since she stowed away aboard a transport bound for the Philippine Islands during the insurrection in 1898. She said:

"It's always been a bone of contention — this masquerade of Elvira's. I knew something, some day, would happen.

"But suppose you had noble ideals, but the fact you wore skirts instead of trousers was a handicap?

Elvira Puts On Pants.

"Elvira did the only thing she could. She put on pants. Some how she stowed away and got to the Philippines in 1898 as a free-lance newspaper correspondent. She also helped as a Red Cross aid — did grand work. Then she came home.

"She continued to write. Finding that a woman could not prowl around alone at night, she preferred to be a man."

"Jack's" father was a major in the Mexican army who founded the first Mexican consulate in San Francisco after the Mexican war. The mother was Miss Elisa Alice Garland, daughter of a Louisiana supreme court justice.

Wounded, Angry Bear Is Shot Dead in Elevator

Tacoma, Wash.—A fugitive black bear that mistook a hotel elevator for a cage was shot to death after terrorizing part of the downtown area for 15 minutes.

It escaped from a cage on a park department truck and headed for the busiest section of the city. Park employes fired at the bear, inflicting wounds that put it in a fighting mood.

Pedestrians screamed and fled as police chased the bear through thronged streets.

The elevator caught its eye and it lumbered in. The operator was cornered and escaped the bear's claws by inches.

Motorcycle Policeman William Nerbonne killed the bear with a single pistol shot through the bars of the elevator.

Man Doing Housework Shoots Critical Wife

Kansas City, Mo. — Because his wife, the family's breadwinner, criticized his house-keeping, Frank L. Oatman, sixty-seven years old, attempted to kill her, intending to take his own life afterward, police said.

Since Oatman and his wife, Eugenia, fifty-three, were married in 1932, he has been unemployed while she remained at the post she has held twelve years with a chemical manufacturing company. In the "turn-about" scheme, Oatman did the housework and Mrs. Oatman brought home the groceries.

"But she didn't like my methods," Oatman told officers. "She criticized the way I made the beds and dusted. We quarreled."

Seeks Cool Spot; Burns to Death in Furnace

Chattanooga, Tenn. — Hubert Wright, eighteen years old, an employe of the Hodges-Walsh-Weidner Boiler company, burned to death in a furnace because he sought a cool place to rest. The youth crawled into a large steel drum to escape the stifling heat in the plant. The boiler was cool and Wright went to sleep. Workmen, unaware of his presence, lifted the drum into an annealing furnace where gas burners were lighted. Furnacemen later found Wright's charred body.

Not the Same Fate for Nice Christmas Cards

Mr. Christmas card leaned heavily against the rack. The store was dark. The doors locked. "What a day!" he groaned.

Mrs. Christmas Card sighed loudly. "You have suffered no more than I have, my dear."

"What I object to are ladies who bend back my corners, and peer at my picture, and read my lines, and then lay me down again all askew," said Mr. Christmas Card.

"That's nothing! How would you like to have a little girl jam you back in your envelope so that she tore the red lining?"

Several other cards spoke up. They all complained of bad treatment.

"And we'll all be thrown in the waste basket, anyhow," finished Mr. Christmas Card. "Ho—hum . . . . dear me!"

But next morning when both Mr. and Mr. Christmas Card was bought by the same person, and later sent to the same family, and not thrown into the waste basket but set up on the mantel, they felt proud.

"But we are very remarkable cards," they told each other, and waited for the next person to say, "How perfectly lovely these are!"—Martha Banning Thomas.

MINCE PIE PROHIBITED IN DAYS OF THE PURITANS

The mince pie has had many enemies.

The Puritans would have none of it, and even in the eighteenth century it was a forbidden delicacy to a large number of clergymen. During the Commonwealth the holding of Christmas festivals was forbidden.

In 1644 parliment passed an act ordering all citizens to observe Christmas day as a solemn fast, to be spent in silent atonement for previous festivals that had passed in riotous living and merrymaking. The order remained in force for 12 years.

The authorities in several towns tried to reduce Christmas day to the level of other days. In Canterbury, by order of the mayor, it was proclaimed that "Christmas day and all other superstitious festivals should be put down."

People who attended service in the cathedral were mobbed. The inhabitants formed themselves into two parties, and feeling in the matter frequently resulted in the exchange of blows.

In 1652 it was proclaimed that "no observation shall be had of the five and twentieth day of December, commonly called Christmas day, nor any solemnity used or exercised in the churches."

The order was enforced by soldiers. Ovens and larders were searched, and where seasonable dainties or decorations were found they were carried off and destroyed. A changed attitude towards the Puritan dislike of Christmas festivities came with the restoration of King Charles.

HURDLER HAS NIGHTMARE

Los Angeles.—Dreaming that burglars were peeping through his window, Phil F. Cope, of the University of Southern California and co-holder of the world's record for high hurdles, leaped through his bedroom window severely cutting himself. Forty stitches were required to close the gashes in his right hand and both his feet.
